

The Nurse Becoming Podcast EP#123: Until Next Time - We're ...

Tue, Sep 06, 2022 11:37AM 10:03

SUMMARY KEYWORDS

podcast, episode, grateful, np, podcasting, listen, community, listenership, clinical practice, love, decision, started, youngest, week, guest, returning, mission, focusing, spend, terms

SPEAKERS

Amanda Guarniere

Amanda Guarniere

Hello, hello! Welcome back to the Nurse Becoming Podcast. Amanda here. Thank you so much as always for being here and tuning in to today's episode, which is going to be a little bit different than the things that we have usually talked about. Usually I have some sort of career advice for you or a featured a guest expert, or story to share. And today I am here to tell you some news that the podcast is going to take a hiatus. This is the first episode I've ever had to record where I've told you, "hey, we're taking a break". Because we have released an episode every Tuesday since July 2020. So I'm I'm really proud of what we have done and where we've come from. And I'm so grateful for all of you who have tuned in for 122, now 123 episodes. This has really been such a wonderful labor of love of mine. And yeah, well, I've made the decision to put the podcast on hold. And this is one of the few things that I don't have a plan for in terms of if we'll be coming back to podcasting when I'll be coming back. So, you know, I'm kind of putting an ellipsis on the podcast for now. And I don't know, it makes me kind of nervous. If you know me, you know that I'm someone who plans things out meticulously like months, if not years in advance, sometimes to a fault. But this is something where we're I'm just kind of making a decision and announcing it without knowing what the plan is, you know, for the podcast in the future. And I wanted to tell you a little bit about kind of why I made the decision. And also kind of the other things that I have planned in terms of my time how you can learn from me how you know, I'm going to continue to share this goodness to the world and continue the mission of, of what this podcast has stood for. Because to make it clear, I'm in no way going anywhere in terms of my business, I've just decided that we're no longer putting out a weekly podcast until until further notice. And part of this came from the fact that I feel like I have covered a lot of topics here on this podcast. And and frankly, when I do when I do ask me anything, you know, q&a days on social media, I have pretty much a podcast for nearly every single question that I'm that I'm asked. So I feel like I have done a pretty good job of, of creating the content that answers the questions I bet many of you have. And that really is what I wanted to do with the podcast from the beginning is I wanted to have a place where I could not only feature guests, because as you know, this show is pretty good combination of both guest and solo shows. But you know, a show that I could really answer your questions and so that you could have a place to come for career advice and resources as a nursing professional.

So I feel like between, you know, my content here on the podcast, on my website on social media, I've got a pretty good library going and I don't necessarily want to keep adding things just for the sake of coming up with topics and ideas. Because, you know, we can easily over consume content. And I want to make sure that everything that I'm putting out is high quality, and really helping you and helping the mission of this company, which is to help nursing professionals find land and love their dream jobs, that is still very much the mission. So that's part of the reason. Another part of the reason is that life for me is getting a little bit busier. I am actually going to be returning to clinical practice one day per week, I've been on an extended maternity leave, since my youngest was born and since the pandemic started, and since I decided to take this business full time, and I'm getting to the point where I'm itching to kind of get back into the swing of things. So I will be starting a new clinical job. Actually, by the time you hear this episode, I will have already started orientation. And that's going to be taking up my time one day per week. And I still you know very much want to maintain the lifestyle boundaries I've created for myself, you know, my my youngest is three and she's in daycare or preschool three days per week and that is very much I design. And I have Mondays and Fridays where I'm off with her. And in order for me to add new things like returning to clinical practice, it means I have to reevaluate the things that are currently fitting in that time. And for me, you know, the decision, partly was to put the podcast on hold. In terms of other ways that I'm going to spend my time, I'm really going to refocus on guesting on other podcasts. So that is definitely how I got started in terms of spreading the message of, of my business. And I'm ready to do that some more. I really love giving interviews, I love answering questions. I love hearing what other people's communities want to know more about. And I love teaching, and really meeting new communities. So I'm going to be focusing on you know, getting my voice on some other shows, as well as doing more talks for schools and organizations and different communities in healthcare. And certainly, if you have a suggestion for me, if you maybe have a podcast yourself, or you're on your student government for your school, or you have a class that you would like to see me guest lecture in or a conference you'd like to see me at, I would be so grateful. If you could make an introduction, or just send a note my way saying, Hey, I'd love to see you here or hear you on this, this show. So if you send a note to amanda@theresumerx.com, I'd be super grateful for your suggestions and connections. So that's going to be another one of my focus focuses. So guessing another podcast, I'll be returning to clinical practice. And then I'm going to be focusing on delivering great value inside of my paid programs and community. So I have several different programs and courses as well as a membership community, the NP Society, which is really something that I want to spend a lot more time being present in and showing up for and really getting to know my members better, and making sure that I'm delivering, you know, the best experience possible inside that community. So if you want to keep hanging out with me, and you are an NP or an NP student, I would love to see you inside the NP Society, we are always accepting new members. And you can learn more at thenpsociety.com. And the other thing I'll just say is I've just been so so grateful for your support and your listenership. If you've ever, if you've ever listened to an episode, if you've ever shared an episode with a friend, if you've ever, you know, shouted me out on social media or sent me a note or left me a rating or review, I am just really, really grateful because I haven't been podcasting into the void. There are there have been many of you listening, and I'm just so appreciative of the time you've spent, taken out of your day in your life to learn from me and listen to me, that does not go unnoticed by by any means. So just really, really grateful for that. And you know, this, I want this podcast to still be a resource for you, you know, go back, listen to old episodes, if you have a friend or a colleague that you think would benefit from these older episodes, please feel free to continue to share about it. It's not, you know, that's the good thing about podcasting as the episodes are around forever. And I've designed most of them to be kind of timeless. So that really were wherever you are in your journey or wherever you are in time. It doesn't matter if you're listening to an old episode, it will hopefully still be relevant to you. So you can still listen to all of the episodes here, wherever you've been listening to podcasts. And we'll still keep the podcast episode directory and show notes up on the website, which is nursebecoming.com or theresumerx.com/podcast. So I hope to continue to hear from you and maybe meet you virtually at a future event or a talk or if you hopefully are considering joining the NP Society I'd really love to see you in there as well. And if you want another way to support me, this is in the outro of our episodes as well. But we have a site on buy me a coffee which is similar to like Patreon or you know places where you can donate to creators. So if you've enjoyed my show and you'd like to support by buying me a coffee, that would be so wonderfully appreciated. You can go to buymeacoffee.com/nurse becoming. So that's it for now. Until next time, I'm not sure when that time will be but remember, I am always rooting for you and I am so grateful for your listenership and I'm sure our paths will cross again. Until next time!